Analyzing the population's health risks from the influence of environmental factors of various nature in vicinity of the Siberian chemical complex

https://arctichealth.org/en/permalink/ahliterature84705

Source: Gig Sanit. 2007 Sep-Oct;5(5):49-51
Language: Russian
Publication Type: Article
Abstract: The paper provides the results of calculating the risks to human health in the cities of Seversk and Tomsk. The cancer risk from man-caused radiation is 2 orders of magnitude lower than that from air pollution with chemical carcinogens. Air contamination of classical chemical pollutants presents a major hazard to human health.

PubMed ID: 18050702 View in PubMed