

Improving linkages between family physicians and hospitals.

<https://arctichealth.org/en/permalink/ahliterature168411>

Author: Sheryl Farrar
Don Collins-Williams
June Kingston

Author Affiliation: Hastings and Prince Edward Counties Health Unit. sfarrar@sympatico.ca

Source: Healthc Q. 2006;9(3):56-9, 2

Date: 2006

Language: English

Publication Type: Article

Keywords: Canada
Community Health Planning
Family Practice - organization & administration
Fees, Medical
Hospital-Physician Relations
Hospitals, Community - organization & administration
Humans
Ontario
Organizational Case Studies
Primary Health Care - organization & administration
Program Development

Abstract: Hospitals, as social pillars and hubs of medical activity, can be a great influence and supporter of family physicians and primary healthcare, which will in turn improve the health of their communities. This paper discusses general linkages between family physicians and hospitals and the development of a specific program to enhance these linkages created at a large community hospital in Ontario.

PubMed ID: 16826767 View in PubMed 