

Treatment options for the fetus with alloimmune hemolytic disease.

<https://arctichealth.org/en/permalink/ahliterature228823>

Author: J M Bowman

Author Affiliation: Department of Pediatrics and Child Health, Faculty of Medicine, University of Manitoba, Winnipeg, Canada.

Source: Transfus Med Rev. 1990 Jul;4(3):191-207

Date: Jul-1990

Language: English

Publication Type: Article

Keywords: Blood Transfusion, Intrauterine - adverse effects - methods
Canada - epidemiology
Erythroblastosis, Fetal - diagnosis - epidemiology - immunology - therapy
Exchange Transfusion, Whole Blood
Female
Fetal Blood - immunology
Fetal Death - etiology
Humans
Hydrops Fetalis - etiology - mortality - prevention & control
Immunoglobulins, Intravenous - therapeutic use
Immunosuppression
Infant, Newborn
Kernicterus - etiology - mortality - prevention & control
Labor, Induced
Male
Plasma Exchange
Predictive value of tests
Pregnancy - immunology
Prenatal Diagnosis
Prevalence
Rh Isoimmunization - complications - epidemiology - therapy
Rh-Hr Blood-Group System - immunology

PubMed ID: 2134630 View in PubMed 