

Occupation and risk of cutaneous melanoma.

<https://arctichealth.org/en/permalink/ahliterature237558>

Author: R P Gallagher
J M Elwood
W J Threlfall
P R Band
J J Spinelli

Source: Am J Ind Med. 1986;9(3):289-94

Date: 1986

Language: English

Publication Type: Article

Keywords: British Columbia
Chemical Industry
Female
Humans
Male
Melanoma - epidemiology
Occupational Diseases - epidemiology
Risk
Skin Neoplasms - epidemiology

Abstract: Occupational mortality from cutaneous malignant melanoma was evaluated for deaths occurring in British Columbia from 1950-1978 by using age standardised proportional mortality ratios (PMR). For males, significantly elevated PMRs for melanoma were seen in managers and owners, accountants, architects, chemical engineers, and gardeners and nursery workers. Female school teachers were also at elevated risk of death from cutaneous melanoma.

PubMed ID: 3963011 View in PubMed 