

Diseases associated with the low copy number of the C4B gene encoding C4, the fourth component of complement.

<https://arctichealth.org/en/permalink/ahliterature93811>

Author: Szilágyi A.
Fust G.

Author Affiliation: 3rd Department of Internal Medicine, Semmelweis University, Budapest, Hungary.

Source: Cytogenet Genome Res. 2008;123(1-4):118-30

Date: 2008

Language: English

Publication Type: Article

Keywords: Complement C4 - genetics - metabolism
Disease - genetics
Gene Dosage - genetics
Humans
Phenotype
Polymorphism, Genetic - genetics
Risk factors

Abstract: In this review article, earlier and recent work of the research group on the copy number polymorphism of the C4B gene are summarized. In a study performed in 1991 a sharp decrease was found among healthy elderly (>60 years old) people as compared to healthy young (

PubMed ID: 19287146 View in PubMed 